जननि Oh! Mother! हिमगिरि-निवासैक-चतुरौ (Your pair of feet) is acclimatized to constant residence in the snowy mountain, निशि चरमभोग च विशदौ, brilliant during the night, at daybreak and also by day, श्रिय-मत्सृजन्तौ समयिनां and constantly bestowing their grace on devotees, हिमानी-हन्तव्यं (whereas) the lotus is liable to blight by the fall of snow; निशायां निद्राणं sleeps during night and, वरं लक्ष्मीपात्रं is dependent upon Lakshmi for its grace सरोजं त्वत्पादौ जयतः So Your feet win over the Lotus! इह चित्रं किम् ? What is strange in this?

Oh! Mother! Your pair of feet, acclimatized to constant residence in the snowy mountain, brilliant during the night, at daybreak and also by day, constantly bestowing their grace on devotees, surpasses the lotus which is liable to blight by the fall of snow (sleeps) during night and is dependent upon Lakshmi for its grace. What is strange in this?
